

Budget Request: Kappa Delta Pi - Get Your Teach On

Kappa Delta Pi is a diverse community of undergraduate and graduate students committed to promoting excellence and advancing scholarship, leadership, and service. Threaded throughout our mission statement and organization's larger goals is the charge to encourage quality teaching by providing educators the means to implement research-based strategies, continue professional growth, assume leadership, and to become master teachers. Our team of executive council members, along with our faculty counselor Karmen Bell, are seeking funding to uphold this mission. Karmen Bell has received financial support from the Department of Curriculum and Instruction to fund her attendance at Get Your Teach On's regional conference held in Houston, Texas. I am seeking financial support for four chapter leaders to attend the conference with her. As chapter leaders, we must model the high standards of the education profession by recognizing that learning to teach is a life-long journey and that significant learning occurs in the confines of our campus-based courses, in our field placements, but more importantly, that it lives beyond the walls of these settings. Student achievement often rests solely on the ability of teachers to understand and respond to needs and learning challenges in classrooms that are dynamic and ever-changing. Get Your Teach On (GYTO) will be hosting a regional conference February 17th and 18th, 2020. The conference features daily sessions that address research-based practices to promote student engagement in K-6 classrooms. Conference attendees include administrators, in-service educators, and pre-service teacher candidates. The conference invites a broad constituency for a rich mix of conversation, networking opportunities, hands-on workshops, and engagement among scholars and professionals in the field of education. Visit their website for more information: <https://www.getyourteachon.com/> The funding we are requesting to be covered is the conference fees for 4 of our executive board members. While we recognize that there are 6 of us, we are aware of the $1750 maximum amount of funding an RSO may receive for conference funding. We will be working diligently to obtain the rest of the money we will need to pay for the other executive board members, along with room and board costs. Each conference admission is $391 and includes 2-day admission, printed conference materials, access to digital resources, and sponsor products. At a rate of $391 per person for 4 members, this comes to $1564. In addition, the conference charges a credit card processing fee of 3.99%. When calculated, this computes to $62.40 resulting in a total of $1626.40.

Please state the mission of your organization

- Kappa Delta Pi advances quality education by inspiring teachers to prepare all learners for future challenges. We encourage quality learning by giving educators the means to implement research-based strategies, continue professional growth, assume leadership, and become master teachers. KDP achieves this goal of quality learning for all by: Providing teacher education programs with professional resources and sustained support for retaining effective educators in all classrooms, developing teacher leaders to be change agents and empowering them to advocate for the best interest of students and the teaching profession, and advancing instruction that ensures students are globally aware, socially responsible, resilient, and able to solve problems in a just and equitable way. In order to provide quality learning experiences for all students, educators must remain up to date with current best practices and researched strategies. It is our chapter's mission at the University of Arkansas to uphold the standards of service, scholarship, and leadership among our members as outlined by national Kappa Delta Pi.

Please describe the purpose of the conference and how attending this conference will benefit your organization and the University of Arkansas.

- The promise of Get Your Teach On (GYTO) is exposure to portraits of proven effective strategies ready for implementation. The information supplied will enable educators, and our executive team of pre-service educators, to engage and empower students. The possibility to attend this conference alone is exciting. However, the knowledge our executive board will obtain will help us grow beyond what we ever imagined to lead our future students well. Our learning in Houston would not stop there; It will continue to be shared in workshops with our members and follow us into internship and practice. Conference attendance will provide our executive council with current research-based practices and resources that we can immediately implement into our field placement classrooms and internships. More than that, it will inspire innovative ideas for the monthly professional development that we plan and deliver to our chapter members. Essentially, the more we know, the more we can inform teacher candidates who share the same goal of becoming master teachers.
